About STEAM Pakistan

STEAM Pakistan is a collaboration between the Malala Fund and the Ministry of Federal Education & Professional Training. The overall objective of STEAM Pakistan is to improve learning outcomes of students enrolled in government schools across the country. The project also aims to develop cognitive and critical thinking abilities among students through targeted sessions and activities, with a particular focus on girls' education. The Pak Alliance for Maths and Science (PAMS) is the lead implementing partner for STEAM Pakistan, with its head office in Islamabad,

STEAM Policy Units in Karachi and Lahore, and a STEAM Policy Unit in Gilgit.

To date, STEAM Pakistan has enabled interactive Safer sessions directly impacting over 7,500 school children in more than 170 government schools of Islamabad, Karachi, Lahore and Gilgit. Impact activities included inspirational talks, hands-on learning and career counselling by professionals on variety of topics such as engineering, space exploration, marketing, mountaineering, climate change and public policy to trigger their imagination.
